A LIVELY SESSION.

THE COUNCIL AND THE CITY RAILROAD FRANCHISE.

Frankenfield Explodes a Bomb in Camp-Hellman Enters a Vigorous Protest - No Conclusion Ar

The City Council met in special session sterday evening, to hear the report of the ard of Public Works on the application of the City Railroad Company for permission to change their track from a single line with norse power to a double cable track.

Mr. Hellman exhibited a large map of the track, from the Plaza to Main street, south of Temple block. According to the proposed changes, the company would have, between Temple block and the Plaza, on Main street, a double track for the narrow Main street, a double track for the narrow track of the Central Railroad and the broad track of the Central Railroad and the broad track of the Central Railroad and the broad track of the City Railroad. This takes the space only of two broad tracks, although there would be six rails. It would accommodate, on three rails, two classes of cars going the other good of the classes of cars going the other way. It would also accommodate the Boyle Heights cars, from Temple street to Arcadia street. The double car track would be continued down Spring street, from the Nadeau to Main street, in front of the Temple block, taking the place of the single horse cars of the Sixth-street system. The single horse cars will run down First street, from Fort to Main, and, after reaching Main street, will run on the Main street and Agricultural Park track until they get on their own track, beyond the Plaza and up Upper Main street.

After waiting over an hour for the report of the Board of Public Works, the president announced that the report was ready, and called the Council to order.

The Board of Public Works, in their report, recommended the adoption of the amendment as petitioned, with changes as shown by the map: fares of school children to be half the regular price. Regulations in regard to paving alongside the roads were also provided, and the work is to be done under the supervision of the City Surveyor.

Mr. Kuhrts spoke regarding the plan of the company to go down Spring street, instead of from Main to Spring, by First street. He said many holders of property on First street objected to having the track taken up on that street.

On motion, the report of the Board of Public Works was then adopted.

FRANKENFIELD's MOTION.

Councilman Frankenfield then moved, as

FRANKENFIELD'S MOTION. n amendment to the ordinance, that the Councilman Frankenfield then moved, as an amendment to the ordinance, that the Company pay 5 per cent, of their gross earnings into the city's treasury annually, in lieu of all other taxes.

I. W. Hellman said it was useless for the Council to do anything. They had granted franchises to Tom, Dick and Harry. He was going to do this work. He would have switches from one end of the city to the other. He had heard that one Councilman had bragged that he had enough Councilman had bragged that he had selong to the coast paid 5 per cent. On its gross income. His company wanted to spend from $500,000 to $1,000,000. They were not strangers who came here to gamble, but old residents. He could prove what he had said in regard to a Councilman's remark.

Mr. Frankenfield said he had been here over six months himself, and, although he hadn't quite as much money as Mr. Hellman, he had the interest of the city at heart quite as much as that gentleman could have. He could hold ughis hands and say that whatever action he took was for the interest of the whole people. He took this step because this franchise was worth, perhaps, $1,000,000 to the company, and he believed that, if the Council passed his amendment, they would be blessed for it in future years. The memory of Stephen A. Douglas was held in reverence by every Illinoisan for his action in securing the passage of a law by which the Illinois Central Raiiroad was obtiged to pay to the State 7 per cent. of its gross earnings. That payment now amounted annually to a sum almost sufficient to cover the running expenses of the State of Illinois. Therefore, the people blessed him for it. The Council was not here to legislate for any particular person, but for the whole people. He purposed offering a similar amendment to ever blessed him for it. The Council was not here to legislate for any particular person, but for the whole people. He purposed offering a similar amendment to every franchise which might hereafter be applied for, as long as he remained a member of this body.

E. F. Spence asked permission of the Council to say a few words, which was granted. He said the franchise which it was proposed to amend was granted by the city to Mr. Hellman, who had, in good faith, expended scores of thousands of dollars in laying the tracks and equipping the road. The roads had added to the taxable property of the city hundreds of thousands of dollars. The company had a right, under their original franchise, to make switches and turnouts. The only question was, will the Council give the right to transform it into a double-track road, or will Mr. Heliman

The speaker said he honored Mr. Franken field's public spirit and generosity, but in this case it was out of place, as it was only an amendment to a franchise which was sought, not a new franchise. In the case of an original franchise such an amendment might be all right. All this company asked was the right of way to lay another track, doing away with all switches and turnouts. The interest of the city demanded quick transit. If this application was granted, it would greatly facilitate travel. The exopte demanded this double-track system. Street railroads had done much for the city. They had developed the suburbs everywhere. In denying this privilege the Council would stop progress and not act in the interest of the city. The Sixth-street road would probably soon ask for a similar privilege.

Mr. Heilman said the Council had before them yesterday an application for extension of a franchise where the time had run out and not a stroke of work had been done. This was on Los Angeles street, which he considered the best street in the city. Did Mr. Frankenfield then ask 5 pea cent.? No, indeed! But they came there that evening knowing beforehand that they were going to meet with that opposition. The speaker had spent hundreds of thousands of dollars and not received one cent in return. He had done it and was doing it, tobuild up the city of Los Angeles. When he first built that road people thought him erazy. He had always keep his word with the public.

President Breed said it was impossible to pass the ordinance that evening, as there were not enough Councilmen present. He had thought, however, that it would be best for the various amendments to be discussed.

Mr. Frankenfield desired to remark in reply to Mr. Spence, whom he held in high esteem, that this amendment which the company asked for amounted practically to a new franchise: an extension for 30 years being asked for.

Mr. Hellman: "That is not sô. We only Mr. Hellman said the Council had befor

As the chise."

Mr. Frankenfield repeated that he would offer a similar amendment to all franchises asked for in future.

Couscilman Collins said he thought Mr. Frankenfield's amendment might be a good thing, but as such an amendment had never been presented before, and as Mr. Frankenfield intended to offer it upon all future applications, he thought it would be better to wait with it until the next franchise came up.

Frankenfield remarked that this street rallroad franchise was probably of more importance than all the others together.

THE VOTE.

A vote was then taken on Frankenfield's proposed amendment, resulting as follows: Ayes: Frankenfield, Kuhrts, Lovell. Noes:

Ayes: Frankenfield, Kuhrts, Lovell. Noes: Collins, Goss, Stearns, Teed, Willard, Breed. The motion was accordingly lost.
Councilman Lovell then offered as an amendment that the company, within six months, should commence construction of a cable or electric road, and within one year of the approval of the ordinance no cars should be run otherwise than by the cable or electric system.

Mr. Hellman said it would be impossible to do the work contemplated in such time. They must first make a double track, which would take a year. It was a big job. After making a double track they would then put in a cable road. That might, berhaps, be done in two years. It would not be a filmsy, but a first-class road, like the Market-street road in San Francisco. The Council must be reasonable. The company could not do but a first-class road, like the Market-street road in San Francisco. The Council must be reasonable. The company could had do impossibilities. If the amendment was changed to read one year and two years, it might, perhaps, be done.

Caucilman Teed moved to make it one year and two years.

Mr. Spence thought that Mr. Lovell's amendment was ill-advised. The spirit of that amendment is that if the company did not conform to it, they should go back to the switches and turntables. This enterprise meant an immense affair and a concentration of capital, some of which would possibly come from the East. As soon as possible the company proposed to give a irrst-class cable road through the city, as good, in every respect, as the Market-street cable road in San Francisco. If the Council bound them down, that would delay the furnishing of facilities for the city and county. Let the Council give the company a chance to develop the town.

Mr. Lovell would accept Mr Teed's amendment to his amendment. He orly wanted to know that the company, was acting in good faith.

A vote was then taken, resulting in the unanimous adoption of the amendment.

Mr. Kuhrts moved that the franchise be referred to the City Attorney and copies printed for distribution among the Councilmen before the next meeting; also that it be printed in the city official paper.

Another observations.

ANOTHER OBSTRUCTION Mr. Frankenfield thought the printing hould be done at the expense of the applicants. feet. Mr. Frankenfield reminded the Council that the consent of the applicants wa They could not compel them to printing.

The President asked Mr. Hellman whether ne Presidentasked Mr. Hellman whether he would agree to pay.

Mr. Hellman, in a very positive manner, replied that he would not pay one cent. He would commence building switches tomor-row and the Council could do as they pleased.

Mr. Kuhrts moved that the Council adjourn. Carried.

AT GOLDEN.

"LUM" AND "DOC" DO A LITTLE GOLD-WASHING FOR FUN,

scover a Dry-washer Which is Not a Failure–Visit the Ground-sluice, Clean Up a Few Nuggets and Have

Golden is a remarkable place in more ways than one. It is the oldest mining camp in the United States which is still working. The first discovery of gold in this country was made about 3 miles northeast, but Golden, or New Placers (as it used to be called) followed suit very shortly. For about 55 years the vast mineral wealth fere has supported a town whose high-water mark of population was 5000. That was years ago, before a rascally administration crushed the vigor of the Territory. At present there are probably not over 500 present there are probably not over 500 people in Golden, and a large majority of these are Mexicans. The gold in the people in Golden, and a large majority of these are Mexicans. The gold in the placers holds out nobly, however, and there is gold, lead, iron and copper in inexhaustible quantities in the adjoining hills. The town is not a beanty—few mining camps are—but lies amid impressive seenery. Three or four miles to the north are the fine O-tiz peaks; half a mile east are the Tuerto (crooked) Mountains, and the rest of the horizon is bounded by the San Y sidro and San Francisco ranges. The town itself straggles along on both sides of a little arroyo, with a few comfortable frame cottages, some frame stores and saloons, and the rest of the buildings dobe houses and jacouls (houses built of a palisade of pine trunks, chinked up with mud, and roofed over). The placer grounds are quarter to half a mile up a gentle slope to the east, where the rains of millenlums, eroding the mountain sides and eating out the rich veins, have laid a stratum of gravel 30 to 40 feet deep.

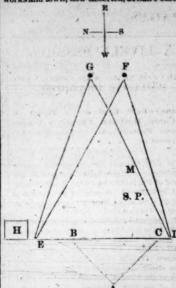

The morning after our arrival, Doc and I trotted up to the placers with the camera. It is a ticklish place to ramble of a dark night—a sort of Brobdignagian prairie-dog town. For a mile square the ground is measled with holes. I suppose there must be 2000 of them, each about 4 feet square, and 10 to 45 feet deep. Around each are the hillocks of coarse bowlders and tailings, each a monument of bygone toll and reward, these dumps are still auriferous, and a man can make living wages by washing them over. The industrious miner, however, sinks his shaft to bedrock, and drifts along the latter as far as is safe without timbering—which is anywhere from 30 to 60 feet. It is a lugubrious place to get intp—to danged own the shaft astride of a stick on the end of a windlass rope, and then crawl on hands and knees 50 feet through a dark burrow 4 feet in diameter, with nothing to keep the gravel and huge bowlders from caving upon you except their own cohesion. I never heard of any one's being burled there, however.

keep the gravel and huge bowlders from caving upon you except their own cohesion. I never heard of any one's being burled there, however.

Doc. and I found Br'er Manuel Aranda working a hole about midway of the placerields, which were otherwise pretty well deserted. His brother was underground, and occasionally gave a yell, whereupon Manuel would grind away at the rude windlass and presentity fetch up to light a big, rawhide "bucket," containg about 200 pounds of paydirt. He flung the gravel down on a selectlooking little pile, and took some up into his hands to prospect it. While he was thus employed I caught a first-class, instantaneous photo of the scene. He had abandoned the tedious rocker, and was doing his work with a dry-washer. Now, the dry-washer has become a byword and synonym for contempt. It is generally deemed the mining equivalent of perpetual motion. You may judge, then, of my surprise when I found here a dry-washer which does work to perfection. I have never seen it elsewhere, but on the dry gravel of Golden it is simply perfect. It is a light little machine, which a healthy man could pack on his back for several miles by means of straps—simple, and wonderfully effective. It is built on the fan-blower principle, and catches gold from the size of a pea to the finest flour. Such a machine costs only $50 delivered in Golden. It ought to be a good thing in the rich but waterless canons of this county. It is made by Porter. of St. Louis, I believe — the address I cannet at this moment lay my hand on. Aranda and his brother were averaging their $6 per day aplece with it. They cleverly consented—a favor you can always have in Golden—to let us have uno prospetto. We carried the dry-washer a few rods to another dump, and Doc worked the machine for an hour or so while I panned out what was left on the apron after every few buckets of gravel had gone through the washer. Sie got out about a dollar and a half in coarse gold—a result most pleasing to her heart.

Then we went up to the spot where my old friend an axis. This Steal Number One covered the triangle D E F; many times as large as A B C. Later, the rich Delgado gold mine was discovered, on the North Oroqué Peak, G, and to take it in a new survey was made. Steel Number Two, therefore, covers the triangle E D G, and includes both the Big Copper mine and the Delgado. The town of Golden is situated at H. The present alleged grant, E D G, covers about 40,000 acres, as against the few hundred of A B C. S P is the location of the million-dollar works and town, now deserted, at San Pedro.

As I told you first, the mine and the works are now deserted. No work has been done there since 1883, when the long-suffering and honest mineers of Golden, desperate at the determination of the claimants of the steal to drive them away from their claims, bodily captured the mine and held it, with stern Winchesters poked through loopholes in the big door of the main entrance. The suit in youlying the validity of the grant is still pending before the Supreme Court of New Mexico, and a decision is hoped for before long. In equity it can go but one way—against the atrocious steal.

Almost Another Cutting Affair Judge Sepulveda to the Fore. City of Mexico, Jan. 8.—[Correspond ence of The Times.] There has just missed being another Cutting affair, whose theater should have been the City of Mexico. The facts are as follows: The recent telegrams sent to the New York Herald from this city concerning the complicity in the Sedgwick and Manning scandals of one Giraud, an American from New Orleans, who has taken and Manning scandals of one Giraud, an American from New Orleans, who has taken out naturalization papers as a Mexican citizen, and who was described in said telegrams as "a whitewashed American"—these telegrams then, were sent by J. Mastella Clarke, owner of The Two Republics, sole American dally here, and by the editor of said journal, named Latsky. Giraud was very much incensed by these dispatches, and he obtained from the authorities orders enjoining the telegraph companies to submit to his examination all telegrams presented for transmission on the dates in question. Thus informed as to the source of offense, Giraud instituted proceedings for criminal libel against Clarke and Latsky, who would certainly have brought up in Belem prison, the proofs being conclusive. They must also have tarried in that noisome place pending the trial, according to precedent. Judge Ygnacio Sepulveda, an American of Mexican derivation, for many years County and District Judge at Los Angeles, Cal., undertook to rescue his countrymen from their risky position, and, as his legal acumen is great and his relations with the Mexican authorities very cordial, he succeeded in extricating them from the closest pined that has threatened an American here for a long time. It is whispered, and none too softly, that even thus the affair could not have been arranged but for the intervention of Mr. Manning, unconfirmed or pro tem. Minister, who, seeing that he would be sadly compromised were the facts ventilated, appealed to Giraud, in whose house he is said to have begun his debauches in this city, and his mediation induced Giraud to withdraw the suit. The parties who thus escaped as by the skin of their teeth are considerably subdued, and Clarke especially, who has rather regarded himself as a pet of the Mexicans, prefess to admit any other topic rather than an allusion to Belem.

Then we went up to the spot where my old friend Piersol was ground-sluicing the the artesian wells and grown for gold in the quickest way. Much misunderstanding exists among people in the East about irrigation and the water system in California. Many persons seem to think of the land as an arid, treeless waste, almost devoid of vegetation except where supplied with water artificially. They also seem to look upon irrigation as an expensive, troublesome and inefficient substitute or make-shift for a climatic deficiency in the natural supply of rains. This popular misunderstanding probably arises from the fact that to one who has not made an especial study of the subject, rainless Egypt, with its annual floods and groaning water wheels, is ever the type of irrigated countries.

water wheels, is ever the type or irrigated countries.

It is especially in Southern California that the system of irrigation has been developed and is in constant use. It is so used not because of a deficiency in the rainfail, but because of the fact that by the use of 'it the production from the soil may be multiplied and increased. The winter rains, which, as described in a previous article, fall in the six months from the middle of October to the middle of April, make of what is winter elsewhere in the North temperate zone really the natural growing season in Southern California. During these months the grasses and the clovers and all the indigenous pasturage reach their season's growth.

soll may be made to do double duty, and a sammer crop of corn or other grain again be raised.

It is found also that while in most localities orchards and vineyards do well without a supply of water, irrigation increases the yield and produces a better quality of fruit. Water is also freely used during the summer months in house yards to keep green a sward of freels grass and for the cultivation of flowers and for fountains.

No one who has once grown accustomed to the luxury of a constant supply of water among the trees and flowers in a door yard could ever be content again without it. Water for such purposes is conveyed in underground pipes. It is this feature of Southern California which, next to its mild, equable climate, makes the charm of its home life. Water for these purposes is obtained from different sources and much money is expended in its management. In the great orchard and farming regions which border the large rivers the water is taken out in extensive systems of open canals and ditches which, ever subdividing as they go, are carried for miles over the fertile plains. These canals are generally built by and are under the ownership and control of the land owners, each farm receiving its branch ditch with water rights under certain rules framed by themselves. With the constantly-increasing demand for water and the extension over still wider areas of land, less wasteful methods of management become necessary, and these canals and ditches are now frequently lined with hydraulic cement, thus preventing loss by seepage, which in the long canals and their innumerable grants at the mouths, of the seepage, which in the long canals and their innumerable ramifications, becomes very great.

The smaller mountain streams are taken from their channels at the mouths of the cañons and carried in underground pipes for miles through the orange belts which line the base of the great ranges. These lands are generally divided up into small tracts of from 10 to 30 acres, each having its homestead and separate family life.

The water is not only used for irrigating the land but is also piped through the houses, thus giving all over the country conveniences which in other lands are only found in cities.

Where the cañons are apparently dry, or show only a very small stream of water, submerged tiams are put in, forcing the water to the surface. Many small proprietors at the mouths of hill gulches and ravines, run in cheap tunnels to strike bedrock, and thus develop fine springs of sufficient capacity to supply the household and to irrigate a number of acres.

Water is also extensively stored, in large reservoirs. These reservoirs are dotted through the hills for hundreds of miles, and vary in size from one to many hundreds of acres.

Parther out from the mountains, or over vary in size from one to many nuntreus of acres.

Farther out from the mountains, or over the plains, when farmers desire water to irrigate orchards, wells are sunk, which, at a reasonable depth, strike unfalling supplies of water, and this is pumped up by windmills. The daily sea-breeze makes such mills a very reliable source of power, and a single mill will pump many thousands of gallons each day.

Over the great plains, however, away from the mountains, artesian wells are used. These wells are bored very cheaply and quickly. They vary in caliber from 4 to 9 quickly.

from the mountains, artesian wells are used. These wells are bored very cheaply and quickly. They vary in caliber from 4 to 9 inches and are lined with iron pipe. At depths of from fifty to several hundred feet an unfailing supply of water is struck which rises in the pipe and flows over the top, sometimes spouting up to the height of several feet. One such well will irrigate many acres.

In the report of the State Water Commissioners, made several years ago, the number of flowing wells in the two counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino alone was stated at over 1000. The number is rapidly increasing with each year.

It will be seen from this article that the development and use of water for irrigation is not because of a natural aridity of the country, but as a means of increasing its productive capacity and adding to the convenience, the comforts and the pleasures of life. The great ranges of mountains which form a background to Southern California, reaching elevations of from seven to eleven thousands of feet, form a water shed which sends out an unfalling supply of the purest water to supplement the rainfall of the plains; and thus the land is one of the posit of sediment which it often brings, and by the mineral substances held in solution, increases the natural fertility of the soil.

There are two ostrich farms in successful peration in Los Angeles county. The ider of the two was established near mahelm, in the southern part of the years, about five years ago, by Dr. Charles ketchley, a practical ostrich farmer of outh Africa. After demonstrating the access of the experiment, Dr. Sketchley ganized a new company with a capital tock of $100,000, made another trip to the ape Colonies and brought over a second argo of birds. Those of the last importation, 34 in number, were established on a arm of 680 acres, a part of the Los Feliz anch, on the bank of the Los Angeles liver, 7 miles north of this city. The plan month the year around, and the building appears, a one-story cottage-house, and a barn structure that proves to be the incubator shed. A tall row of the ever-wonderful encalyptus (Australian gum-tree) shuts the ranch completely from view. In front of the high fence that incloses the breedingpens are two corrals, that contain two droves of young California estriches, stalking about in single file, now putting their heads high in air, then their long necks curving graundwise, and biting away.

There are but two exceptions. In one inclosure are three adult birds. In another is the very ugly bird which killed its mate. In one pen are eleven chicks, 5 months old, which represent one hatching, and no failure of the eleven eggs all the week in the warm sand being a success. The baby moves the world, so the baby ostriches are of much interest. Last spring when there were so many ostriches to be looked after, it was found necessary to close the ranch from visitors.

it was found necessary to close the ranch from visitors.

The parent birds became so much excited on the approach of strangers that they stepped on the chicks and with their heavy feet, of course, killed them. Later precautions have been taken to prevent the parents from annoyance. Seven months ago 11 eggs were allowed a pair of birds in a corral in the south side of the inclosure. They were placed in a nest hollowed out of the sand, the natural way of hatching having been concluded to be the best.

The artificial incubators have been discarded. The eggs were set upon by the male at night and by the female ostrich during the day. In 42 days

came forth from the thick shells and began the straggle of existence. They were about the size of an average Spanish hen and large enough to make one wonder how so much could come out of so small a shell.
They presented a comical appearance, standing after several trials. They had quills not unlike those of a porcupine, stubbs rather than quills. Soon they ate Egyptian corn, not cobble-stones. They were 11 odd creatures, growing bigger, every day and continually developing something more like feathers. The first week the happy father brooded them. The corrat was open to the air day and night and the wind blew through the slits as it would, but the chicks passed the first difficult six weeks, and the severe rains of the specially stormy winter of 1883 were safely passed. These young ones went along without coddling, as others have done.
They now at 7 months appear almost hair grown. They are all gray. All are of this color until later, when the males grow black, with some white feathers. They feed with their parents, but it is not evident that

FFEL ANY PRIDE IN THEIR OFFSPRING.
The bills of the old bird shut upon the alfalfa and cabbage with a snapping and brisk sound, and the little birds have the same voracious appetite. It is not known that the hen bird clucks or peeps after the manner of domestic fowls. Our attendant says the big ostriches never call to the chickens. The parent birds do no scratching in the sand for the chickens. Such an effort with their big and long legs would have sent the pieces of alfalfa and cabbage flying about as if fired from a mortar. Looking at sociability as we see it among ordinary domestic fowls and with the ostrich, it certainly is at a very low ebb. The work of the attendants consists in keeping dogs and strangers away, and in throwing over to them their green food. Until lately it has been said that disease is unknown in the ostrich household, although in Africa the past few months many have died of liver complaint. When it rains the chicks get wet and dry when the sun shines.

At one year old they are plucked for the first time. They are supposed to have attained full growth when they are two years old, sometimes growing a little after that.

or our attendant went across this space and the male bird made all sorts of demonstrations of anger, walking back and forth, craning his long neck, and his eyes looking daggers. As though he could not show his disturbance enough, he laid down on the ground and cut up all sorts of frenzied anties. It may be seen that they carry their stomachs on their backs, and are all legs and neck. The head is a queer little affair, and a full grown bird is not in the head much larger than a gander. The brain of an adult is not larger than an English walnut. The female that was kicked to death contained four score eggs of all sizes.

They can and do raise three broods in a year, but oftener hatch only two and three of the dozen eggs. The hatching of the eleven eggs is entirely exceptional.

When the earliest chicks were hatched PEOPLE COME FAB AND WIDE.

When the earliest chicks were hatched PEOPLE COME FAR AND WIDE. to see them, so many that their visits became a serious annoyance. An admission fee of $1 was made, which has recently been reduced to 50 cents.

Ostrich ranching has certainly gone beyond the experimental stage in California. In addition to Anaheim's ranch there is one in San Diego county, and it is reported that twenty young ostriches have been raised this year.

ranch, on the bank of the Los Angeles River, 7 miles north of this city. The plan which Dr. Sketchley is there working out is to establish an aviary and zoological gardens. The grounds have been laid off in landscape style and planted with trees, shrubs, slowers and lawns. There are on exhibition, not only the ostriches in their pens, but a large number of tropical and sub-tropical birds in cages, and wild animals, such as bears, deer, monkeys, panthers, wild cats, wolves, coyotes, rubbits, guinea pigs, etc. There is a restaurant and refreshment stand on the grounds. A dumpy railroad has been projected from Los Angeles to the ostrich farm, and its construction was commenced last week. Aside from the profit of ostrich raising, Dr. Sketchley probably has a money-making investment in his gardens.

A correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean furnishes the following interesting account of a visit to the ostrich farm near Anaheim:

The visitor goes through a small gateway quarded by a whitewashed wooden fence, passing an alfalfa (Australian clover) field, that admits of cutting every other month the year around, and the building appears, a one-story cottage-house, and arm structare that proves to be the incubator shed. A tall row of the ever-wonderful encalyging (Australian gum-tree) shuts the birds walk after the style of the "Grecian birds w birds walk after the style of the "Grecian Bend" years ago among would-be fashionable girls; should think "ostrich bend" should be fitting for such elasticity. The birds seem to be treading on hot gridirons.

The feet are taken up rapidly and raised custom was recognized in heathen South Africa, and is as old as the race of these most remarkable creatures.

Ferocity and most foolish fear seems an inheritance everywhere. Some are ill-tempered, but every one is dangerous after three the plucking men have been kicked, but not severely. Had the birds had a tolerable forward kick the result would be fatal.

A COTTON MILL.
BEAVER FALLS (Pa.), Jan. 7, 1887.—[To the Editor of The Times.] I was very much interested in reading a letter from North Pewnal, Vt., in The MIRROR of De-which represent one hatching, and no fall, ure of the eleven eggs all the week in the warm sand being a success. The baby moves the world, so the baby ostriches are of much interest. Last spring when there were so many ostriches to be looked after, it was found necessary to close the ranch from visitors.

The parent birds became so much excited on the approach of strangers that they stepped on the chicks and with their heavy feet, of course, killed them. Later precautions have been taken to prevent the parents from annoyance. Seven months ago 11 eggs were allowed a pair of birds in a corral in the souti side of the inclosure. They were placed in a nest hollowed out of the sand, the natural way of hatching having been concluded to be the best.

The artificial incubators have been discarded. The eggs were set upon by the male at night and by the female ostrich during the day. In 42 days

Of course a mill in Los Angeles would take considerable more money. As to the possibility of growing cotton in Southern California, when I was in San Francisco about two years ago a gentleman showed me a sample of cotton grown in Kern county. It was fine, slean cotton, but short in the staple. He said he had planted a considerable quantity of it as an experiment, but I never heard how it succeeded; possibly you may be able to get information as to this.

I think a mill in Los Angeles would be

It hink a mill in Los Angeles would be quite a spoke in its wheel of prosperity, and I would judge it to be for the interests of the town to encourage such an enterprise in every legitimate way, such as granting a free site, and immunity from taxes of all kinds for at-least seven years.

I may state that these terms were actually offered to me since I came to America, by a smaller city than Los Angeles, and, in addition, they agreed to raise $100,000 of the necessary capital if I would take charge of the concern.

THE ladies of Boston have determined to uncover their heads in the theater. With the "Hub" leading the way in this great reform, what American city will hesitate to banish the bonnet in the presence of the drama? - San Francisco Examiner.

With the example set by New York and Boston, no American city will long hesitate. In fact, feminine Los Angeles is thinking of doffing her bonnet at the forthcoming Patti concert.

THE Board of Trade of San José recently appointed a committee "to en-list the cooperation of the Southern Pacific Company in a project to advertise the resources of Santa Clara county and build a $300,000 hotel" in San An agent is to be Angeles to represent San José interests and, if possible, turn toward the fair vale of Santa Clara some of the numerous tourists who are now popularly believed to be crowding the Los Angeles people out of their houses. San José is just spoiling for some of the boom.

OUR correspondent "P. M.," writing from Beaver Falls, Pa., discusses in a very candid and practical vein the subject of establishing a cotton mill in Los Angeles, which was broached in THE Times last month. "P. M." is a practical manufacturer and was formerly connected with a firm in the old country which operated 2500 looms and 150,000 spindles and employed between 2000 and 3000 operatives. The views of such a man are worthy of consideration. While our correspondent is not disposed to invest his subject with the color of the rose, he still pronounces in favor of the feasibility of cotton production and manufacture in California. and believes it could be made to yield a fair income on the investment.

Ture Conneil at its special session last evening, failed to arrive at a com plete understanding with Mr. Hellman concerning the double-track cable road through the city, east and west, and the matter was postponed until the next session. Most of the differences have been adjusted, however, and the probabilities are that the ordinance will be passed next Monday. The double-track cable is the most important public enterprise ever projected for Los Angeles, and with the modifications of franchise already agreed upon, there can be no reasonable obction urged against it. The City us hope they will not higgle it

The Tide of Immigra

The cry is, "Still they come." The Ennis excursion of 16 Pullman cars arrived by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé route Monday. There were not less than "250 people in the party. Yesterday the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé line brought in another excursion of 21 cars, with about 500 peocursion of 21 cars, with about 500 people, and the Southern Pacific "Sun rsion numbered 225. These excursion parties bring to Los Angeles in two days, about 1000 people, and this in plus of the regular influx which sets Los Angelesward, through a half dozen regular channels. Of course, the hotels and boarding-houses are filled to overflowing, but a few days will suffice to house many of the newcomers in private quarters, scatter others through the county and send some on their way rejoicing. The number of those who come seeking permanent homes in the city or country is very large, and these are quickly absorbed in the body politic. Those who come merely to pass the winter or to look about are in the way of temptation, and, two to one, they conclude to remain, or will return after settling up their affairs in their old homes. grand result of this is that the population of Los Angeles city is growing in about the ratio of 25 per cent. a and; should nothing occur to check this increase, the population will be doubled in less than four years.

The "boom," as we all delight to call it, has been spreading through the neighboring counties of San Bernar dino and San Diego, and now it moves northward along the coast, waking up Santa Barbara, Ventura and San Luis Obispo. It is possible that the benighted denizens of the Northern Citrus Belt may catch some of it after awhile as a result of their persistent efforts. but nothing is more certain than that Los Angeles will remain the center and focus of this new era of prosperity.

Outlying sections of the county show about the same rate of advancement.

A Frozen Hoax.

A story calculated to pull hard up on the heart-strings of sympathetic people, came over the wires and was published by papers throughout the country last Saturday. It was to the effect that the schooner Maggie Dalling, a seal-hunting vessel, had been wrecked on the Pribyloff or Seal Islands, in Bering Sea. The captain of the craft had died some time before, and the captain's daughter was in command of the craft at the time of the wreck. She nobly manned (or womaned) the helm through all the wild storm, and then, where the schooner was beached, she was crushed under a falling mast. A rescuing party took her to Oonalaska, when the dispatch left her in a dying condition. Now comes the San Francisco Chroni cle and brands the whole story as a frozen lie, saying: "No such ves-sel as the Dalling is known on this coast, neither does the Alaska Commercial Company employ any craft in hunting seals. The dis-patch further states that the Captain's. daughter had been navigating the vessel for six months. On January 10th she is reported to have been in Bering Sea wrecked, and the young lady had been brought to Oonalaska. When it is considered that there has been no communication with the Seal Islands since October, nor with Oonalasks since November, the statements must be regarded as false. By no manner of means could a shipwrecked crew be brought from the Seal Islands in January, which is the depth of winter, and as they are distant 150 miles from Oon alaska, the trip in a skin boat would be rather hazardous.

An Iconoclast Abroad

That a prophet is not without honor save in his own country, and among hi own people, is abundantly demon-strated by the subjoined communication. THE TIMES, following its wellknown policy of giving everybody a hearing, allows this letter to see the light of print, notwithstanding the fact that it voices a rank heresy. But let the letter speak for itself; we do not wish to prejudice it in the minds of our readers readers:

BURREL POINT (Cal.), Jan. 16, 1887.—
[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] How is it that Prophet Potts offers, for the consideration of $10,000, to guarantee 10 inches of rainfall for the season? After the great freshet of three years ago, the prophet published a complete key, showing how to foreast the rainfall for the season, and for all time to come, from the changes of and position of the moon. When the Chief. Weather Ruler observed that publication, Haimmediately telephoned to the head general of the weather department to change the combination, so that it would require some other key. Since that time P. P. has failed most egregiously in foretelling the rainfall; never coming nearer than three days of it. Many times there have been no indications of his predicted storms for weeks. Is the prophet aiming to recuperate in the mild climate of Canada, or will he procure bait and tackle and take a fishing tour in some of the pleasant Pacific islands? Querry.

OLE FROSTY. It is somewhat painful to have the accuracy of the only well-established prophet that Southern California posesses thus rudely called into question True, Prophet Potts has not always brought water from the rock when he has smitten it with his rod of prognostication, but he has nearly always been able to point to a little moist spot at the foot of the hill within a week there after. For this let him be duly accredited. THE San Bernardino Courier makes this favorable report of progress in the new San Bernardino and Los Angeles

Railroad:

Rifty carloads of rails have been received and unloaded in the yards to be used in the building of the San Bernardino and Los Angeles Railroad. A building for storage of material has just been finished. At the west end of the yards the stone and brick work for the roundhouse and turntable is finished, and the stonemasons are now at work on the foundations of the roundhouse. The large force of Chinamen still at work grading and leveling the yards.

The railroad has been graded about 10 miles west from San Bernardino.

R. P. Ingram, sworn: I reside at Lankershin's mill. Am night watchman. Last Thursday night I was at the corner of Requena and Alameda streets. I heard the brakeman hollering to fetch up a light. I had a lantern with me. I ran down to where the cars were, at the corner of Jackson street, and saw Miss Gale lying alongside the track. There was a policeman holding her head up from the ground. Then Dr. Gale came over from the other side of the track, and said he could not do anything, as his arm was broken. The policeman and a lady picked Miss Gale up and carried her to Dr. Gale's house. I did not see the accident. The brakeman told me his lantern went out at the time of the accident, by reason of his setting it down on the ground. G. W. Kauffman, sworn: I am yard switchman. Last Thursday evening as I was catching the cars at the Jackson-street crossing, I noticed people near the crossing. I hollered to them to stop. I was standing within 4 or 5 feet of the crossing, and within 15 feet of them when I hollered. I had a lantern in my hand. One of them, a lady, stopped. I thought all had stopped until I saw the cars hit them. There were two cars moving. I ran and picked up the young lady. I set my lantern down on the ground and it went out. There was a boy on the engine with the engineer. Don't know if he was acting as fireman. The cars were disconnected from the engine. I think my hollering to the people to stop could have been heard half a block. One pair of wheels of the front car were thrown from the track. Only one car ran over the young lady. Persons coming down Jackson street could see my lantern. It did not go out till after the accident.

Mechanics Wanted

There is a great dearth of bricklayers and builders in Los Angeles, several houses in course of erection being at a standstill for want of mechanics. Those here are getting very high wages. It seems that the Unions here spread the statement broadcast that the city has all the mechanics we need and menhave thus been kept away. It is safe to saythat at least a thousand good bricklayers, carpenters and other men connected with the building trade could find immediate and lucrative employment in this city and subarbs.

Judge Hatch's Decision Sustained by the Supreme Court.

San Francisco, Jan. 18.—[By the Associated Press.] The Supreme Court has sustained the order of Judge Hatch in the Superior Court of Santa Barbara County, dismissing the information and proceedings against Alexander P. More for assault with intent to commit murder. The order, which at the time occasioned considerable comment, was made by Judge Hatch, at his own motion under section 1385 of the Penal Code, which provides that: "The Court may, either upon its own motion or upon application of the District Attorney, and in furtherance of justice, order an action or Indictment to be dismissed." The Prosecuting Attorney appealed to the Supreme Court from the action of Judge Hatch, claiming that although no statutory machinery is provided for the State to appeal in criminal cases, still, as the Supreme Court has revisory jurisdiction over all courts of record, it follows that the State has a right to appeal, although its privilege to do so has not been declared. The Supreme Court held that section 1938 of the Penal Code is the only one under which such revisory power can be exercised, and that as the appeal did not come within that section the action of the Superior Judge was final. The appeal was dismissed.

SAD FOR SULLIVAN.

The Noted Slogger Breaks His Arm During a Fight. MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 18.—[By the Asso-elated Press.] John L. Sullivan, weight 215 pounds, and Patsy Cardiff, 185 pounds, fought six rounds here tonight in the pres-ence of a very large audience. Cardiff got in three blows and Sullivan none. There as a good deal of clinching. The contest was decided a draw, it being explained that Sullivan had broken his arm in first round. The blow which Cardiff struck Sullivan in Sullivan had broken his arm in first round. The blow which Cardiff struck Sullivan in the first round was square in the mouth and drew blood. This caused Sullivan to be somewhat cautious. Within a moment, however, he aimed one of his terrible right-handers at Cardiff, which the latter dodged. Sullivan's wrist striking back of Cardiff's neck, breaking the wrist bone. Sullivan concealed this fact even from his seconds until the close of the fight, and this accounts for apparent tameness of the remainder of the contest. This showed his wisdom, for had Cardiff known that the champion was injured he would have acted more aggressively. Cardiff is the most surprised man in Minneapolis over the result, for in conversation with an Associated Press reporter after the fight, he said he expected to be knocked out, and he acted with great caution, knowing that Sullivan was only waiting one good effective blow. No one calls the affair a hippodrome. The fight was for points, the winner to get 75 per cent. of the house receipts and the loser 25. The general impression is that Cardiff had the best of the fight from first to last, getting three blows on Sullivan's face and pushing him to the ropes twice, cleverly avoiding Sullivan's attacks and coming out at the end of the sixth round as fresh as when he went in. Information was conveyed to O'Grady that a force of 18 policemen and bailiffs, under command of Capt. Plunkett, was coming to evict him, and he prepared to 'give them a warra reception. With the assistance of neighborr, he cut down trees and shrubbery, with which he barricaded the house. Then O'Grady and about 20 of his friends proceeded to the upper story of the house, cut away the staircase behind them, and stationed themselves at the windows to await the coming of the enemy. The evicting party soon arrived, and stormed the house with sledge-hammers and bayonets. Ladders were placed against the walls, up which the policemen and bailiffs swarmed, but the defenders threw boiling water on the assailants, and hurled the ladders to the ground. The attacking party advanced repeatedly upon the house, and were as often repulsed. The contest lasted fully three hours. Utilmately a hole was cut in the upper floor, through which some policemen crawled, while others covered the occupants of the house with rifies, threatening to fire if the slightest hostile movement was made. The eviction was then effected, and several persons were arrested. During the excitement crowds of people gathered about the house and cheered the defenders. For this display of sympathy they were repeatedly charged upon by the police and vigorously clubbed. A number of policemen and elizens were injured in the affray.

The flowing of horns and ringing of bells brought together large crowds of peasants, who threatened the police with violence. The police made a strategic move around the base of the mountain by the sea, but scouts on the mountain top gave the alarm, and the peasants rushed down the mountain side and blocked the passage. The constable threatened the crowd with his baton. This was the signal for a shower of stones from the excited peasants. A desperate fight ensued, in which five policemen were badly wounded. A priest who was present finally succeeded in quieting the people, and they allowed the police to proceed. A tenant named Gallagher was evicted, but for various reasons the police ieft other tenants undisturbed. In many cases they were unable to identify the cottages from which the occupants were to be ejected. In the meantime the peasants carried Gallagher back to his house, kindled a fire and reinstated him. The priest then persunded the people to allow the police to retire. While the Sheriff and his escort were on their way home masses of granite rolled down the mountain'side, and the officers narrowly escaped injury. Whether or not tiffs was the malicious work of the peasants is unknown. While the fighting was going on two vessels off Bloody Foreland stopped to witness the melee. A large number of writs of ejectment have been granted, but it is expected that no further attempt will be made to enforce them.

A measure for introduction in the House was substantially agreed upon, as was also a mode of procedure. The measure agreed upon will repeal the tax on abacco and dealers therein, also on fruit brandies and alcohol used in the arts. It will place on dealers therein, also on fruit brandies and alcohol used in the arts. It will place on the free list those articles mentioned in the Randall bill, together with some others, such as jute and grasses. It is expected that the articles proposed to be added to the free list at the meeting tonight will increase by about $3,000,000 the reduction of revenue contemplated by the free list of the Randall bill. The bill whi also contain the provisions of the Randall bill reducing the tariff on certain articles, but the intention in framing it is to avoid, as far as possible, the long discussion, which a general tariff measure would occasion. The bill, it is said, contemplates a reduction of $55,000,000 in the annual revenues of the government. A committee, consisting of Representatives Randail, Warner and McAdoo, and three anti-internal-revenue Democrats, was appointed to consider all the details of the proposed bill, and to report at a final meeting to be held next Friday. The members of the committee yet to be appointed will be chosen by the Congressional organization known as the Southern Anti-Internal Revenue Men, and will probably be selected from Representatives Cabell. The mode of procedure has not been entirely and definitely determined upon, and the members were reticent about it, but one of the most prominent of those present stated that it was the intention to call the matter up, and press it for consideration, under all considerations.

The adverse majority reports on the Logan and Blair bills will be made by Messrs. Swope and Taulbee respectively, and the favorable minority reports by Messrs. Conger and Morrill. It is understood that the basis of opposition to the bills is the reluctance on the part of the majority of the committe to the continuance of the policy of granting high pensions to widows of officers who did not die from injuries incurred in the service.

The only precedents for passing such bills are found in the cases of the widows and families of Admiral Farragut, Gens. Hancock, Thomas and Grant, and a majority of the committee believe it to be bad, policy to follow these precedents, in view of the fact that there are about 100 surviving widows of officers who would then be entitled to pensions, who are now excluded by the general law.

A BIG BATCH OF ITEMS-INDUCEMENTS TO SETTLERS. WESTMINSTER, Jan. 17.—[Correspondence of The Times.] Westminster is quie ence of The Times.] Westminster is quiet but by no means stagnant. A good area has been plowed and sowed to barley. The bottom lands are being cleaned up by stock preparatory for corn and potatoes again, and the ariesian wells are at work in full flow in the absence of rain. Uplands are dry, but the corn lands will make a good showing in a dry year.

The Goodwin place has been sold and resold at $100 per acre, and is now rented by Mr. Moore.

in progress.

B. F. Townsend has sold most of his peat and.

The Davis brothers have leased the Napier peat land for two years.

These changes are but the begining of a long series. Productive land is cheaper here than in any other place in the county. If buyers will be content to be about six miles from a railroad for a short time, and will have the enterprise to come and see for themselves, there will be no trouble about disposing of the bargains now held by absentees.

Henry Stevens is one of our best farmers and dairymen. He keeps his books in all details, and his place is a model. For the past year 12 mich cows have yielded him a profit of 43.50 each, besides milk and butter consumed by the family and 12 calves raised. He will enlarge his dairy to about 40 head this season.

The Raymond Hotel has engaged all the eggs and butter from McFadden's store.

We shall all have to work hard this year to keep the foothill country supplied with the necessaries of life—hay, corn, potatoes, milch cows, horses, butter and eggs. These are Westminster specialties, and nothing pays better. The only alkall flavor about them is in the minds of outside real-estate agents, who even try to disparage our artesian water, the purest and best water supply in California.

sian water, the purest and best water supply in California.

"Where the carcass is there will the eagles be gathered together." The old real-estate agency of Robert Strong, which for a long time has been the only one here, will now have to compete with a new firm—Hadley & Moore. Where there was not enough business for one, two may inaugurate a boom. It is a good sign of movement. Success to them in bringing in buyers, who only need showing to be convinced. Here, for example, is a 20-acre piece of damp laud, corn land mostly, that yielded 740 centals of shelled corn last year, besides alfalfa and pasturage. Where else can such land be had for $100 per aere? The uplands are equally low in proportion—$30 to $70—and pienty of artesian water. More money is made here out of crops, in proportion to cost of land and expenses, than at any other place we know of. A small capital and good sense are the only essentials. As yet the only crop we have not raised is—real estate.

PUENTE!

The STOP and see what has been done at this thriving place. It is only is miles from Los Angeles. Ten passenger trains pass daily. A nice depot has just been built. A tasty and well-kept hote is open to the public. Four stores have been built here, several cottages, a livery stable, a blacksmith shop, etc., etc. A brick block is now going up which will contain three business rooms on the first iloor and a large music-hall and ante-rooms in the second stery. One or two more brick blocks are promised to be built soon. The plans have been adopted for a church, which will be built before spring. A $600 schoolhouse is soon to be erected. This is fast becoming a business center for the large and beautiful valleys surrounding it. It will be a popular health resort, as it is well protected by the foothilis and commands a fine panoramic view of Covina, Azusa. Duarte, Menrovia, Sierra Madre, Passedena, Raymond Hotel, etc., etc. The Puente oil wells are becoming noted, and are furnishing fuel to many large manufactories in different parts of the State. Why should we not have manufacturing done here and save transportation? The surrounding lands are about to be subdivided into small tracts. Visit Paente and be convinced that this is the place to make good investments. Lots have soid very rapidly, but few are LEFT which can be had at low prices.

COMPOUND OXYGEN. THE BENEFIT DERIVED FROM INHALATION.

In the Circle of Sciences we read this sentence: "The general effect of oxygen in nature is that of a life giving principle." Ever since the discovery of oxygen by Priestly, has this idea been uppermost in the mind medical, for since respiration is the process of administering oxygen to the tissues of the body through the agency of the blood (and in the lungs, purifying the life-blood), the thought instinctively pops into the mind that it, in cases of discuse or imperfect oxygenation, we could help the lungs to more than their usual amount of oxygen we would be wielding a weapon of vast remedial effectiveness.

Practical experience shows this theory to be correct, and never have we seen a case of asthma, bronchitis, consumption or general debility that the inhalations, properly administered, falled to relieve, more or less. Tis true that consumption in the third stage can only be relieved, except in rare instances, but our belief, founded upon experience, is that every case can be cured in the first stage, and the large majority in the second stage, climatic infuences being favorable.

The home treatment can be sent per express to any address.

Los Angeles, June 13, 1886.—Dr. W. N. Davis, Dear Sir: I was troubled with a bad form of catarrh of the nose and throat for eight years, and I am thankful to say that your treatment has entirely cured me in a few weeks (eight weeks). My stomach was somewhat affected, causing indigestion, which was relieved at once. I have gained 10 pounds since I began treatment, and feel better than since I was a child.

The stock narket, except for half a dezen stocks, which included Richmond and West Point, Reading, Jersey Central, Lackawanna, Laké Snore and Union Pacific, was very duli throughout the day, and presented little feature of importance. Fluctuations were generally confired within a range of 1 per cent. The opening was irregular, changes from last evening's closing prices ranging up to ½ per cent. both ways. Trading was light and prices were weak. The improvement lasted into the afternoon, when the market sagged again until the last hour, when a firmer tone prevailed, and the close was steady to firm, but dull. Sales, 24,008 shares. The net result of the day's transaction is that the last shows irregular changes, which are generally for fractions only.

The Mammoth Excusion of the Atch ison, Topeka and Santa Fe Rail-road—Another Big Crowd Over the uthern Pacific-Complete Lists.

Below will be found the complete list of the great Atchison, Topeka and Sauta Fé excursion which arrived yesterday in 27 Pullman cars. The first section arrived at 4 p.m., and the other two at 10 p.m. The 4 p.m., and the other two at 10 p.m. The list, thanks to lazy and incompetent work by the excursion agents who made it up, was in frightful shape—only the list of the third section being done up in workmanlike shape. With a tedious amount of labor, the list has been revamped in this office, so that the places from which the tourists come are alphabetically arranged, and one can find in a moment if an expected friend has come. No other paper in the city will present the list in this shape.

Fall Plowing for Cut-worms.

Fall Plowing for Cut-worms.

Prof. E. W. Doran, Entomologist to the State Board of Agriculture of Tennessee, writing of cut-worms, says;

"A great many remedies for cut-worms have been suggested, but perhaps the most efficient is that of fall plowing. Some of our most intelligent and wide-awake farmers are very positive in regard to the value of this remedy, and back their assertions with records of careful observations. As is well known, the cut-worm usually passes the winter in the larval stage. The eggs are deposited by the parent moth in the latter part of the summer. The young worms soon hatch from these and begin feeding upon grass, etc., but owing to their small size and the abundance of their food plants, they are rarely observed at that time. When winter comes on, being about half grown, they form little cells in the ground in which they hibernate. If the ground in which they hibernate. If the ground in which they hibernate. If the ground in which they hibernate cells broken up, and their destruction completed. The plowing should be done late in the season, after the worms have prepared for hibernation. This is certainly worthy of a thorough trial, especially in districts badly infested last year. The worms usually seem to be worse on clover or other pasture lands."

Large Grape Crops.

There is considerable rivalry among viticulturists as to the largest yield per acre of grapes produced during the season just closed. A Sonoma county vinyardist gathered 50 tons from 3½ acres, or at the rate of over 14 tons to the acre. This was claimed to be the largest yield secured, but a raisin-grape grower at Santa Alia comes forward with a yield by careful weight of 27 tons and 500 pounds from an acre and three-quarters of vineyard, or at the rate of 15½ tons to the acre. These are both exceptional cases, but they only show what it is possible to accomplish in this branch of horticulture under exceptionally favorable circumstances.

Restoring Pear Trees Often pear trees that have proven un-fruitful can be induced to bear good crops by root pruning. Sometimes top crops by root pruning. Sometimes top pruning will answer the same purpose. The work should be done during the lat-ter part of March or very-early in April.

Southern Iron in the North.

Northern iron producers were start-led a couple of years ago to learn that 100,000 tons of Southern pig-iron had been sold north of the southern line of Pennsylvania and east of Pittsburgh. Immediately the price of anthracite pig-iron dropped from $20 to $18 per tor Immediately the price of anthracite pig-iron dropped from $20 to $18 per ton, the drop being made for the avowed purpose of shutting the product of the Southern furnaces out of the markets which the furnace-owners of Ohio and Pennsylvania regarded as their own by a sort of divine right. In spite of the drop, however, the year 1885 witnessed the sale of another 100,000 tons of the correcting product of the South in the sale of another 100,000 tons of the competing product of the South in Northern markets, and the figures show that the 100,000 tons of 1885 have grown to 140,000 tons in the year just closing. But the sale of 140,000 tons of Southern pig-iron in the Northern markets gives but a faint idea of the rapid growth of the iron industry in the South, nor the extent to which Southern iron is taking the place formerly filled by the product of Northern furnaces.

New York's Great Cathedral.

[New York Star.]
The big new Cathedral is how having its two towers carried up. It will take several years, perhaps a generation, to do this work. Huge scaffoldings are placed from the sidewalk up along the bases of the towers, and they rise as the work goes along, receiving, of course, additional support from the marble architectures. Engines are used to send up the stones, which are brought to the spot all carved.

A SANITARIUM.

Ever since Ontario was founded, the mouth of San Antonio cañon has been recognized as an ideal spot for a sanitarium. Several times sanitariums have been started there "on paper" and one scheme in which Rev. S. G. Lines figured prominently, seemed likely to amount to something, but like the others it fell, through. It takes a little time to bring all such projects to tangible results, and we are glad to amounce at length, that a finely planned sanitarium, in charge of skillful physicians is now well assured.

length, that a finely planned sanitarium, in charge of skillful physicians is now well assured.

We mentioned a short time since the sale of Col. May's place, at the mouth of the caflon, to Mrs. S. E. Messenger, of Jackson. O., for $16,000; and the coming season will see the erection there of a building commensurate with this initial outlay for site and grounds. With Mrs. Messenger, in the management of this enterprise, will be associated her son. Dr. A. C. Messenger, a graduate of the Ohio State Medical College, and her daughter, Dr. Fannie Messenger, a graduate of the famous medical school of the Michigan State University at Ann Arbor, who is at present here with her mother. Mrs. Messenger and Miss Messenger will go back East in the course of a week, and expect to return in April, at which time work will be begun at once on a fine sanitarium building, located near where Col. May's house now stands. From a study of similar institutions in the East, a building will be planned that will combine all the latest and best ideas. And managed as it will be by skillful physicians, the advantages for invalids will certainly be unsurpassed.

The Messengers fixed upon this point as combining the best sanitary conditions of Southern California, as no other locality visited does, and we congratulate them on so sound a decision. The altitude, the nearness to the beautiful walks and drives in San Antonio cañon, the sheltered nature of the spot selected, the inspiring view, and the probable early completion of an electric road to the point: all these good things combine to make the spot, as we said at the beginning of this saricle, an ideal one for a sanitarium.

This sanitarium project will in no way interfere with the scheme for a hotel on the sanitarium.

This sanitarium project will in no way interfere with the scheme for a hotel on the mesa; the two are distinct in plan, though one would help the other. The sanitarium is now a certainty; the hotel, we trust, soon will be.

MONROVIA NOTES.

What is Doing in the Boss Foothill Town.
The Monrovia Planet furnishes the following among its notes of progress:

The building boom is unabated.

The lumber companies report no decrease a sales notwithstanding the increase in

The Monrovia public school convened Monday after a two weeks vacation with 25 scholars.

Monday after a two weeks' vacation with 25 scholars.

Bananas have been ripened on W. N. Monroe's place in Monrovia, and the fruit is now frequently placed on the table. The quality of the fruit is very fine.

A sale of 750 acres of land—an addition to Monrovia—is under consideration. In case the sale is consummated, some nice cheap lots will be placed on the market.

H. D. Fowler, a prominent Duarte orchardist, has sold his crop of oranges, on the trees, for $1.50 per box. His crop will be about 1200 boxes. Nice income, that.

Why should not Monrovia adopt the plan of the Southern California towns and open an office in the city, to give all applicants, free of charge, reliable information regarding Monrovia?

A gentleman who has lately visited Riverside and other sections, says that there are no oranges to compare with those grown on the Duarte, only the orchards of the latter settlement are not kept as clean and neat as those of the former. Take warning, neighbors.

Another large real-estate purchase has been made by W. N. Monroe, of this town, and John Thomas, of Los Angeles, of 160 acres of foothill property, immediately in the rear of Mr. Monroe's home place. The property will be immediately improved and two fine residences built thereon for Mr. Thomas and a brother of Mr. Monroe's from lows.

Ban Diego Mines.

[Sun, Jan. 15.]

Another rich ledge has just been opened on the property adjoining the famous Stonewall mine. Two cuts have been made lo feet square and 10 feet deep, and the jubilant finder, who is an experienced miner, declares that a permanent mother ledge has been struck, the surface ore being the same as the Owens, and that sinking will show free gold. He believes it, to be one of the richest discoveries yet made, and as neighboring mines are very valuable property there is good foundation for the faith that is within him. He desires the cooperation of capitalists to develop it.

Our fellow citizen Jim Duffy has just returned from the Line, and he brings the report that Mr. Sevine, Tia Juana, has had his sample of ore from the "Trim Mine" assayed by T. L. Beam, of Lake City, Colorado, with the following results: Sample No. 4—Ounces of silver to 2000 pounds of ore, 386; ounces of gold, 8. Gov. George Ryerson is now at the Line to give Mr. Sevine possession and papers from the government of Mexico. It is government land and he has bought it.

A Santa Barbara Agency.

A Santa Barbara Agency.

[Santa Barbara Press.]

The question of establishing a Santa Barbara agency in Los Angeles, for the purpose of giving accurate information to tourists and immigrants, and of inducing them to come here, has been taken up by the Board of Trade, and at the meeting of the board of directors last night H. B. Brastow was decided upon as the agent. Mr. Brastow has accepted the appointment, and will leave for Los Angeles by the next steamer, or, at latest, the one on Wednesday. The expense of the enterprise will be borne by private subscription. An office will be taken at the leading hotel and an exhibit of courty products made; the county papers will be kept on file, and literature descriptive of Santa Barbara will be freely and judiciously distributed. It will be the duty of the agent to see leading visitors, go out and meet excursions and distribute pamphlets and do everything necessary for the proper advertisment of the claims of Santa Barbara.

A Female Cowboy.

A few days ago the conductor on the Wabash train running from Chicago to St. Louis had a singular experience. Among the passengers in the smoking car was a Texan who offered a drover's stock pass which was accepted. The passenger acted somewhat suspiciously, so that the conductor returned for a better view. To his surprise he found that the Texas cowboy outhit and the Mexican somberro clothed a woman, who had donned these clothes to take advantage of the pass. The conductor made her pay her fare, and, after she had begged permission to enter the first-class coach, she soon disappeared only to appear in her woman's garb, which she had had packed away in a valise. She admitted that she had bought the pass of a scalper.

She Wasn't Grateful.

"Hubby, dear, I can't wait to tell you what I'm going to buy you for New Year's!"
"Darling wife, what is it?" "Well, I'm going to get you a silver card tray and a bronze Hercules for the mantel and a lovely Russian table rug to lay in front of my dressing case. What are you going to get for me, Tootsy?"
"I've been thinking, Jane, and I've about concluded to get you a new shaving brush." (Trouble ensues.)

She Suffers, Too.

[San Diego Union.]
reles and San Diego both suffer tinginess of the heads of departvashington. Postmaster-General

Vilas's great ambition seems to be to make a record for economy rather than an adequate service. The stinting of the postal service in this city and county has repeatedly been criticized in these columns. At Los Angeles the Board of Trade has been endeavoring to get an increase of the clerical force for the city postoffice, but to no purpose. A recent dispatch requesting an increase was answered by Vilas with a refusal, and the answer was not prepaid. Such an exhibition of parsimony in so high an official is disgraceful. There are multiplied evidences that Mr. Vilas is too small for his place. If he was a broad-gauge man, such as the place demands, he would be amenable to enlightenment upon the rapidly expanding conditions of Southern California.

Elsinore's Agua.

[San Diego Union.]

Elsinore is to be supplied with water from McVicer cañon, not far from that town. A company has been organized with a capital of $100,000, most of the stock being held in Pasadena. The supply of water, as it is calculated upon by the News, will not only be sufficient for Elsinore and vicinity, but will afford enough water to irrigate the land as far as Wildomar, about six miles south. There will, it is said, be sufficient force from gravitation to make the use of steam power unnecessary.

The entire tract is beautifully situated, with a charming view, pure air and water and perfect drainage. The Ostrich Farm Dummy Railroad runs through the tract, with a five-cent fare guaranteed to and from the center of the city. This road will be completed to the tract July 1, 1887 Pure and abundant water piped through all the streets.

Size of lots, 50x150 feet up to 5 acres. The average size of lots, half an acre. The uniform price of these lots is placed at $150; first payment $20 cash, with succeeding payments of $10 per month, without interest. This is a splendid investment for a very small amount of money.

When $100 has been paid on each lot, the entire number of lots will be distributed among the purchasers, on the same plan as that on which the Childs tract was distributed.

This tract is situated upon the hills, which are rapidly becoming the most desirable residence portion of the city. The soil is a warm, sandy loam, free from frost, being in what is known as the warm belt. The elevation is such that the temperature is more even than in the city.

Free carriage to the tract every day from the office of the agents. Maps and circulars and all information can be had from
